The ship is the sixth to carry the name Esmeralda. The first was the frigate Esmeralda captured from the Spanish at Callao, Peru, by Admiral Lord Thomas Alexander Cochrane of the Chilean Navy, in a bold incursion on the night of 5 November 1820. The second was the corvette Esmeralda of the Chilean Navy which, set against superior forces, fought until sunk with colors flying on 21 May 1879 at the Battle of Iquique. These events mark important milestones for the Chilean Navy and the ship's name is said to evoke its values of courage and sacrifice.

Construction began in Cádiz, Spain, in 1946. She was intended to become Spain's national training ship. During her construction in 1947 the yard in which she was being built suffered catastrophic explosions, which damaged the ship and placed the yard on the brink of bankruptcy. Work on the ship was temporarily halted. In 1950 Chile and Spain entered into negotiations in which Spain offered to repay debts incurred to Chile as a result of the Spanish Civil War in the form of manufactured products, including the not yet completed Esmeralda. Chile accepted the offer and the ship was formally transferred to the ownership of Chile in 1951. Work then continued on the ship. She was finally launched on 12 May 1953 before an audience of 5,000 people. She was christened by Mrs. Raquel Vicuña de Orrego using a bottle wrapped in the national colors of Spain and Chile. She was delivered as a four-masted topsail schooner to the Government of Chile on 15 June 1954, Captain Horacio Cornejo Tagle in command.

Her sister ship is the training ship for the Spanish Navy, the four-masted topsail schooner Juan Sebastián Elcano. Sometime in the 1970s Esmeralda's rigging was changed to a four-masted barquentine by replacing the fore gaffsail (course sail) by two main staysails. The third (top) main staysail is still in place. She has now five staysails, three topsails, six jibbs, three course gaff sails, four square sails, 21 all in all.

E

El buque escuela Esmeralda es un buque de instrucción de la Armada de Chile de fabricación española. Es el sexto buque chileno bajo el nombre Esmeralda. Actualmente es el segundo velero más grande del mundo (considerando la altura y la longitud), junto con su gemelo perteneciente a la Armada Española, el Juan Sebastián Elcano.

Su nombre honra tanto a la fragata Esmeralda —navío de la escuadra española capturado en El Callao la noche del 5 de noviembre de 1820, por el almirante Lord Thomas Alexander Cochrane— como a la corbeta Esmeralda —navío al mando del comandante Arturo Prat Chacón, muerto gloriosamente en el Combate Naval de Iquique.

Los oficiales egresados de la Escuela Naval Arturo Prat y las 70 primeras antigüedades del Personal de Mar egresados de la Escuela de Grumetes Alejandro Navarrete Cisterna realizan el Crucero de Instrucción a bordo del buque escuela por el plazo de un año.

En 1946, España ordenó a los astilleros Echavarrieta y Larrinaga de Cádiz, siguiendo los planos desarrollados por el ingeniero Juan Antonio y Arias, la construcción de una embarcación gemela del Buque Escuela Juan Sebastián Elcano, como reemplazo del segundo buque escuela de la Armada Española, el Galatea. Este nuevo barco llevaría el nombre de Buque Escuela Juan de Austria.

El 18 de agosto de 1947 los astilleros y Larrinaga fueron destruidos tras la explosión de la Base de Defensas Submarinas de España. El Gobierno de España, en forma de ayuda, se hizo cargo de las deudas acarreadas por la explosión y creó la Sociedad de Astilleros de Cádiz S.A., dependientes de la Empresa Nacional Bazán El trabajo sobre el barco quedó temporalmente detenido. En 1950 Chile y España entraron en negociaciones para saldar las deudas contraídas con Chile como consecuencia de la Guerra Civil Española. Chile aceptó el barco inacabado como parte del pago y, en 1951, los trabajos se reanudaron.

El 12 de mayo de 1953 se realizó la botadura desde las gradas de la Sociedad de Astilleros de Cádiz S.A. y el posterior bautizo de la nave. Raquel Vicuña de Orrego, esposa de Fernando Orrego Vicuña (Encargado de Negocios de Chile), ofició de madrina en la ceremonia en que el buque fue bendecido por el obispo Tomás Gutiérrez .

El buque fue entregado al Gobierno chileno, el 15 de junio de 1954. Hizo el recibimiento el embajador de Chile en España, Oscar Salas Letelier.
